General Comments or Valuable Insight

Today I thought Oil and the names would lead.

This sector performed well but paled in comparison to tech names.

Never underestimate the Power of the FANG names and the risk appetite investors have toward these names.

Price action in the Nasdaq will be key to the board after NYSE opens.

I want to see another day of sustained price action higher for more upside.

Typically you get roasted holding longs into Thursday before they eventually recover.

Given the length of the rallies in names like AMZN a little back and fill would not be a surprise.
