I'm looking for a short covering rally based off the Pit look.

The ADC shows it might not get very far.

General Comments or Valuable Insight

As shown in the Bond charts, it all comes down to using the correct chart.

Today we saw position squaring in the Currencies and U.S. Bonds.

Whether this is just a pressure release from oversold conditions or it can turn into a short covering rally remains to be seen.

The Indices have been grinding around.

What interested me today were the names that shrugged off downgrades to rally like GS & AK Steel and AMZN struggling to hold up during its busy season.

It would seem there is plenty of money to buy. It comes down to sector, name and trade location.

Tomorrow is month end markings.
