General Comments or Valuable Insight

Indices are trading overbought with a mad rotation.

Tonight was all about just defaulting to my Pattern recognition software for names of interest.

I'm trying to find a few names that can garner some upside interest that aren't already up and gone.

Yra has been Blogging on the 2/10-yield curve for months.

I threw in the Bond charts tonight because I want to start paying attention to how the curve is moving.

Can the Long end break (yields up) and catch up to the short end?

Keep your orders to sell the 30 Yr. @ 155.07-10.
It should be a god trade the first time up if filled.

Tomorrow is another day. The names will be a better trade than the indices at these levels.
